

Being a trainee representative

Congratulations on your new role

Transcript

There are many leadership positions you can take on while training at a local, regional and national level. Trainee representative roles are a really valuable experience that allows you to improve things for other doctors and to develop your own leadership skills. This training is for people in one of those roles.

Firstly - congratulations on your new role!

Every role is different, but we'll now cover some general points which should get you started.
